

In the luxuriant nature, near the town of Kleitoria in the Municipality of Lefkasio, there are saved the excavation findings of the ancient city-state Kleitor, the first city of all the Arcadian ones that minted coins. Outside city walls and its theatre, archaeological mattock has revealed a great deal of other archaeological findings as well. Every summer, theatrical plays and ancient tragedies are performed there.

Ancient Kleitor, a city of NW Arcadia, called Azania, lies 3km. on the west of Low Kleitoria and on the south of Upper Kleitoria. Its name probably derives of its enclosed position. According to local myths, it was founded by Kleitor, sone of azanos, who was the genitor of the Arcadian tribe of Azans.
