

Olenos was created by a group of people that love mountains and rock climbing and want the promotion of the values that this activity represents. Their aims include:

- The development and the apinism, rock climbing and generally mountainous sports that do not burden mountainous habitats
- The transmission of love for mountainous nature and alpinism, especially among the youth
- The protection of natural habitats-the mountainous ones in particular- which suffers from strong pressure in our days

The club organizes regular and irregular mountain climbing, training schools for alpinism and rock climbing, promotes its work through public events and printed or electronic publications, maintains a web page and an alpinism route record, functions a library and has regular contacts with its members.

Its also has executives with vast experience in alpinism activities. The members' credits include numerous hiking, alpinism, climbing and biking routes of any level of difficulty on mountain ranges in Greece and abroad.
